Introduction & Usage Guidelines

The following pages contain a list of available tissues and glands.

Products are listed alphabetically with available species/ages listed to the right. Some items may have a number in parentheses following the listing of the species/ages, i.e. (1); this indicates that there is a photo sheet of this item in the photo gallery on the page number listed in the parentheses.

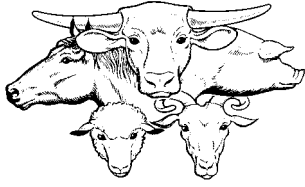

Animal Technologies collects tissues at slaughterhouses that are either USDA inspected facilities or the equivalent. All of the slaughterhouses that we collect at are preparing meat for food production for humans. Animal Technologies does not own these facilities; we have agreements with these establishments that allow us to come into their facilities and make our collections. Our 20 plus years experience in working with these facilities gives us the ability to collect orders to meet specific requirements within USDA regulations.

Ordering Guidelines

When ordering tissue you need to plan on a minimum of 24 hours lead-time. Some specialty and custom orders may require longer lead-times. It is always best to call in your order as soon as you know what you are going to need and when. Orders may be placed up to 6 months in advance.

Placing Orders

You can place your orders a couple of ways – phone call, email or by fax. Ideally, it is best to call in your order so we can make sure that all of your specifications can be met. If you do place an order by email or fax please be sure to include contact information just in case we have any questions regarding your order.

Descriptions of species and sizes:

PORCINE

Fetal Pigs –

Fetal pigs do become available from time to time. Orders taken for this age of animal are filled as the fetal pigs become available.

Small Animals – Market Size

These animals generally weigh less than 250 pounds and are usually between 6-9 months old. The tissue from this size animal is preferred for most medical equipment demonstrations.

Large Animals – Retired Breeder Sows

The animals in this category generally weight 450 plus pounds and are usually over 2 plus years old, with the average age ranging between 4-6 years. Occasionally retired boars may be available.

BOVINE

Fetal Calves –

Tissue collection from fetal calves is available on a regular basis. Whole fetal calves are also available for purchase.

Special Calf –

The animals in this category are usually between 8 – 12 months old. These animals are not available on a regular basis. Orders taken for this age of animal are filled as the animals become available.

Normal Bovine –

The animals in this category are older than 12 months but younger than 30 months. Regular collections from this age group are done weekly. Both steers and heifers are regularly available.

Mature Bovine –

The animals in this category are older than 30 months. Due to BSE risk, there are some restrictions on what tissues can be collected.

CHICKEN

Regular weekly collections.

DONOR ANIMALS

We have donor horse, bovine, goat and donkey available for blood product collections. These are special collections so please call for details.

Additional species may be available – call for more information.
